Community Development Financial Institutions Fund
Native Initiatives Overview

Overview

The Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFI) Fund’s Native Initiatives is designed to overcome identified barriers to financial services in Native Communities (Native American, Alaskan Native and Native Hawaiian communities). This initiative seeks to increase the access to credit, capital and financial services in Native Communities through the creation and expansion of CDFIs primarily serving Native Communities. CDFIs that direct at least 50 percent of their activities to Native Communities are referred to as Native CDFIs. Native CDFIs must be certified by the CDFI Fund in order to participate in certain Native Initiative programs.

A certified CDFI has been certified by the CDFI Fund as meeting all of the following statutory and regulatory criteria:

1. Is a legal entity;
2. Has a primary mission of promoting community development;
3. Is a financing entity;
4. Primarily serves one or more target markets;
5. Provides development services in conjunction with its financing activity;
6. Maintains accountability to its defined target market(s); and
7. Is a non-governmental entity and not under the control of any government entities (tribal governments typically excluded).

Entities must be certified CDFIs in order to be eligible to apply for and receive Financial Assistance (FA) awards from the CDFI Fund; in order to be eligible to apply for and receive Technical Assistance (TA) awards, entities must either be certified CDFIs or agree to meet certification requirements within three years. Organizations sometimes pursue CDFI certification in order to leverage funds from non-federal sources such as banks, foundations, and state and local governments. In FY 2001, there were 14 certified Native CDFIs; as of June 2008, the Fund certified 47 Native CDFIs, a 300 percent increase in the past six years. Since inception, the CDFI Fund has awarded a total of $31 million in awards to Native CDFIs, emerging Native CDFIs, and sponsoring entities – usually Tribes – that propose to sponsor the creation of Native CDFIs. In FY 2008, 29 organizations received a total of $8.3 million though the Native American CDFI Assistance (NACA) Program. In addition, the CDFI Fund has awarded $8 million in contracts to organizations that provide capacity-building and financial services training programs that are focused on Native Communities.
Objectives

Native Initiatives are based on six objectives:

1. To expand training opportunities in community development finance for Native Communities;

2. To provide technical assistance to overcome barriers to the creation or sustainability of Native CDFIs;

3. To provide TA and FA awards for existing or emerging Native CDFIs;

4. To encourage traditional financial institutions to increase financial products and services in Native Communities;

5. To support financial education in Native Communities; and

6. To facilitate networking and in depth training forums in community development finance.

The CDFI Fund works to achieve these objectives through two principle strategies: 1) a funding program – the NACA Program – targeted to increasing the number and capacity of existing or new Native CDFIs, and 2) a complementary series of training programs, called “Expanding Native Opportunities,” that seeks to foster the development of new Native CDFIs, strengthen the operational capacity of existing Native CDFIs, and guide Native CDFIs in the creation of important financial education and asset building programs for their communities.

Native American CDFI Assistance Program

The NACA Program supports Native CDFIs and entities proposing to become or create Native CDFIs and to build their capacity to better address the community development and capital access needs of Native Communities. The NACA Program provides FA awards to certified Native CDFIs, and TA grants to Native CDFIs and entities proposing to become or create Native CDFIs.

Financial Assistance: Eligible Native CDFIs may receive, through an annual competitive process, FA awards in the form of loans, grants, deposits, or equity investments to support their financing activities. Historically, FA awards have been primarily used by awardees as financing capital; a FA award requires the awardee to match the CDFI Fund’s award dollar-for-dollar with funds from non-Federal sources.

Technical Assistance: TA grants may be used to acquire products or services, including technology, staff training, consulting services to acquire needed skills or services, or to support general capacity-building activities. These grants have been used by awardees to increase their capacity to serve their Target Markets and/or to create or become certified Native CDFIs.
Expanding Native Opportunities
Expanding Native Opportunities is a training initiative focused on increasing the number of Native CDFIs, strengthening the operational capacity of existing Native CDFIs, and guiding Native CDFIs in the creation of important financial education and asset-building programs for their communities. These programs are fully funded by the CDFI Fund and administered by contractors that are selected through a competitive bidding process.

Native Communities Financing Initiative (NCFI): The CDFI Fund contracts for the provision of training and technical assistance to Tribes, tribal programs, Native nonprofits and community development practitioners interested in developing Native CDFIs through the NCFI. NCFI is an intensive series of workshops and follow-up technical assistance conducted over a 12-month period to help Native Communities develop and expand Native CDFIs. Since 2003, nearly 235 Native Communities and organizations have participated in NCFI workshops. The CDFI Fund has expanded the training to provide technical assistance to existing Native CDFIs and launched a new Native Credit Union development program. The Opportunity Finance Network (OFN), in partnership with Oweesta, provides this training. Contact Mamata Datta (OFN) at mdatta@opportunityfinance.net or William Guevara (First Nations Oweesta Corporation) at bill@oweesta.org.

Native Financial Skills and Enterprise Initiatives (NFSEI): The CDFI Fund has a contract for training and technical assistance in two activity areas: financial education and entrepreneurship development. The financial education activity focuses the training of trainers in the Building Native Communities financial education curriculum and related tools such as the Earned Income Tax Credit, Individual Development Accounts, and integrated asset building programs. The entrepreneurship activity focuses on entrepreneurship development systems, curricula integration and program development at the local level. This contract was awarded to First Nations Oweesta Corporation, in partnership with CFED and ONABEN (Oregon Native American Business and Entrepreneurial Network). For the financial education program, contact Joanna Donohoe (Oweesta) at joanna@oweesta.org. For the entrepreneurship program, contact Tracey Fischer (Oweesta) at tracey@oweesta.org.

Native Individual Development Account Initiative (NIDAI): Training and technical assistance is available to Native CDFIs and like organizations to create and administer Individual Development Account (IDA) programs. Preparation for IDA program practitioners is provided through three-day training sessions designed to help Native CDFIs, Tribes, or other Native organizations start, implement, and sustain IDA programs in their communities. During the training sessions, participants are guided toward developing plans customized to their communities; after participation in the training institute, they are offered technical assistance in local program start-up and implementation. This contract was awarded to CFED in partnership with First Nations Development Institute and First Nations Oweesta Corporation. For more information, contact Joanna Donohoe (Oweesta) at joanna@oweesta.org.

Highlights of Award Round
Native American CDFI Assistance Program

Highlights of the Award Round

The Community Development Financial Institutions Fund (CDFI Fund) has awarded thirty-six organizations a total of $11.3 million through the FY 2009 round of its Native American CDFI Assistance (NACA) Program. Of the total award amount, $8 million was awarded through the FY 2009 American Recovery and Reinvestment Act funding. The remaining $3.3 million was awarded through the CDFI Fund’s appropriated budget.

The NACA Program is designed to encourage the creation and strengthening of certified CDFIs that primarily serve Native American, Alaska Native, and Native Hawaiian communities (collectively referred to as “Native Communities”). Organizations funded under the NACA Program serve a wide range of Native Communities, and reflect a diversity of institutions in various stages of development -- from organizations in the early planning stages of creating a CDFI, to tribal entities working to certify an existing lending program, to established CDFIs in need of further lending capacity.

The CDFI Fund provides two types of funding through the NACA Program - Financial Assistance awards, which are only available to certified CDFIs, and Technical Assistance grants. Financial assistance awards are primarily used for financing capital. Technical Assistance grants may be used to acquire products or services including technology (usually computer hardware and software), staff training, professional services to acquire needed skills or services (such as a market analysis or lending policies and procedures), or to support general capacity-building activities. Awardees use these grants to increase capacity to serve their Target Market and/or to create or become a certified CDFI.
